

Access to the west wall of Santa Margherita (Monte Gallo):

Drive on the road "Via Barcarello" on the outskirts of Sferracavallo along the coast. Park on the roadside about 150m before the little headland (is also the end of the road with a turning area) close to the bus stop "Punta Barcarello" (from 30 September free of charge).

Walk from the house number 61 on the (only) little road away from the coast in direction wall. At the last house the road changes to a indistinct track. Go uphill to the right, follow the stone men and pass below a fence. Go on a trail more uphill until a branch-off where you can cross to the left to Quota 280 or to the right to Santa Margherita.

To Margherita you cross to the right and pass directly the rocky promontory of the west ridge. Then cross more to the right only little increasing until the trail with stone men leads directly up to the foot of wall. Go left or right along the foot of wall to reach the tours.

Duration: approximately 30 minutes

Descent:

Cross the grassy slope to the left (north) into a wind valley (big stone man). Walk downhill on indistinct tracks and go through bush and crushed rock zones in direction to the right rocky promontory (direction north). The trail becomes under the rock wall more and more clearly and is marked with stone men.

When the tree and bush zone ends, you go downhill to the left over a stony lawn. Pass the bigger rock and go on the crossing hiking trail short to the right. Walk again on a path downhill over the stony lawn and on the second hiking path also to the right. At the stone man follow the well recognizable path downhill and through a pine forest to the gravel walk. Along the coast you get back to the starting point.

Duration: approx. 60 minutes
